Building A Discipling Culture

Part Two: Lifeshapes: Discipling Language

Chapter Eight: “Relational Mission”

1. Why do you think OUT is a difficult dimension for the church to pursue? Why is there fear?

2. On page 115, Breen quotes Permission Evangelism, what is the difference between the way the church does evangelism and how Jesus did? Is this an important distinction? Why or why not?

3. Who is the person of peace and how do we recognize them? Same for non-person of peace.

4. Breen warns us against trying to force something to happen when it comes to evangelism because the opportunities are from God. So, what is our role in the process?

5. Can you identify places where Northview is sowing and reaping? What about in your own life? Why is it vital that we are doing both?

6. Breen contends that a team is an essential element for evangelism. Why do you think that is the case and do you have any reservations about it?

7. Breen says that we should focus our evangelism efforts where dialogue and relationship naturally flow. How would this shape our practices?

8. Speak with those willing to listen and don't bother those who aren't interested in your circles. Does this in fact lift the burden off of evangelism?

9. How can we prepare people to expect and persevere through trouble when we are equipping disciples?
